Dear Ken,

A brief letter to touch on several topics. First, let me tell you how much I enjoyed the Brook Lodge meeting. It was good fellowship, good science, good weather, and good food; that's hard to beat, although you no doubt have tried to do so in Oxford! On behalf of all the benefactors, thanks for supporting the eosinophil centennial. It was a most worthwhile effort.

In relation to the search for funds to support our Ehrlich studies, I wrote to Colton, and I am also going to see Carl Chapman next week. Many thanks for your guidance, and I'll get back to you if I need further help.

Finally, some 53 (out of 105 total) Rockefeller University students have thus far signed up for the New England Journal of Medicine. There may be a few late applications, so I would request a grant of $1000, which should cover the $14 subscription costs plus incidental expenses for the near future. When we have a chance to talk about what to do with this group for a follow up study, we can figure out how much more that will cost. The student response has clearly been enthusiastic, so the idea is a good one. I thank you on their behalf.

I hope the Oxford network meeting was a huge success. You really have things moving now, and it will be, I predict, rewarding indeed to watch your project blossom. I hope I can come to the next meeting in Woods Hole.

With best personal regards,

Sincerely yours,

James G. Hirsch
